MISSION
We empower everyone in our community to understand how their philanthropy can leave a lasting legacy in our region.

VISION
We envision an inclusive and engaged culture of philanthropy that grows an abundance of resources that have a perpetual impact in a thriving region.

In August, CFA celebrated 30 years of serving our region with an event at the Silver Drive-In in Johnstown.
What’s your best wish for our region?

This year, we were so grateful for the opportunity to celebrate 30 years of helping our donors make their best wishes for our community come true and creating legacies that will last forever.

We are proud to say that, since 1990, we have been able to invest more than $110 million dollars in grants and charitable distributions in our community on behalf of donors. That figure represents more than 28,000 individual donors and hundreds of local causes that have been able to grow and provide much needed support for our friends and neighbors, right here in our community.

It’s also been a challenging year, with hardships for many.

Still, because of people like you—people who care deeply about our region—we were ready and equipped to help our community. When the pandemic and lockdown hit our region, we already were working to help local donors to deploy help.

We were quick to leverage this aspect of community foundation work—our adaptability—and put it into motion at a greater speed than we’ve ever seen before. Within less than two weeks, we were able to create the COVID-19 Rapid Response Fund and begin providing local emergency funding to nonprofits responding to urgent health, human services, and economic needs.

For this year, we are happy to report that your community foundation continues to grow, even during this unusual time. Our assets grew from $78 million to $82.5 million as of this June 30. We made grants and charitable distributions of $10,180,000 and received donations from 5,182 separate donors totaling $14,697,954. See the full list of grants and donors in our digital annual report at cfalleghenies.org/about.

Those numbers are a testament to the vision of our founding members as well as to our community, to donors, and to our hardworking nonprofit partners. We are a community that always steps up to help when help is needed. We are grateful for each one of you and inspired by the heart you have for people in our region.

We are honored to help you show your love for our community, now and always.

Mark Pasquerilla
Board Chair

Mike Kane
President and Executive Director

We want to thank Mark Thomas for our Bedford office, Somerset County for our Somerset office, and AmeriServ Financial for our Johnstown space.
The COVID-19 Rapid Response Fund provided support to The Learning Lamp for Chromebooks for children of emergency services and healthcare workers.

For 30 years, Community Foundation for the Alleghenies (CFA) has worked to prepare for and respond to community needs, including those that we may never have anticipated. We’ve helped to connect thousands of donors with change-making work happening on the ground. This happens through grantmaking throughout the year and by investing and saving for the funding needs of future generations. It can be hard to measure that impact because it often adds up to so much more than dollars. Over the past three decades, we’ve made grants and charitable distributions of more than $110 million on behalf of our donors. What kind of impact has resulted?

One third-party consultant helped us break those dollars down to some quantifiable outcomes for one of our funds, the Community Initiatives Fund, which is supported in large part by the Richard King Mellon Foundation. According to an analysis by Pittsburgh-based Fourth Economy Consulting, that fund has directly and indirectly helped create a wide range of meaningful and measurable outcomes over the past 10 years: creating or connecting more than 77 miles of trails, conserving more than 250 acres of land, serving more than 34,000 young people, engaging 5,000 volunteers to improve the community, and providing health and wellness services to nearly 6,000 people.

This year’s unexpected challenges provided another opportunity for the Foundation to provide uniquely responsive support. We were able to adapt to the unexpected and pivot to provide help where it was most needed. The COVID-19 Rapid Response Fund, launched with $100,000 each from CFA and Lee Initiatives Health and Wellness Endowment, has provided nearly $300,000 in emergency funding to struggling nonprofits, including emergency services, fire departments and ambulance crews who lost significant revenue as a result of the pandemic. With a target of responding to health, human services, and economic challenges, the Rapid Response Fund—with gifts from more than 75 individual donors offering $20 to $5,000—provided an avenue for our community to deploy immediate help to our friends and neighbors, right here in our region.

Neighborhoods are being transformed, thanks to efforts to demolish long-blighted properties and eyesores in key Johnstown areas.

This spring, CFA announced $657,000 in funding made possible through CFA’s Fund for the Future to target at least 50 blighted structures in Prospect, Kernville, and Homerstown, including rows of buildings sometimes referred to as the “box houses” along William Penn Avenue in Prospect. Other buildings, selected for their high visibility and dangerous conditions, were to be removed from high-traffic areas of Kernville and Homerstown. Though the pandemic created an unavoidable pause in the availability of demo crews, the Johnstown Redevelopment Authority (JRA) began work again as soon as possible this summer. By mid-August, more than half of the properties had been razed, and JRA Executive Director Melissa Komar said neighbors, visitors, and business owners already were noticing the change.

The work is in addition to another blight removal project in Johnstown’s West End neighborhood, which was completed in July. That work improved a key gateway to the city and involved $75,000 from CFA’s Community Initiative Fund, which matched $75,000 provided through another CFA fund. The 1889 Foundation added another $150,000 to the work, culminating in $300,000 to revitalize the West End by removing 17 dangerous eyesores and replacing them with greenspaces, which already have catalyzed private property improvements by neighbors and local businesses.

At CFA’s Founders’ Day Celebration in August, CFA President Mike Kane announced an additional $500,000 donation to fight blight. In fiscal year 2021, that funding will be put to use in Johnstown’s Cambria City, Minersville, Woodvale, Moxham, and Old Conemaugh Borough neighborhoods, and it furthers the positive momentum happening in our city and region, providing immediate and long-term improvements for our community.

Altogether over the past two years, the Foundation has made a major commitment of more than $1.3 million toward blight eradication in the Johnstown area, and this includes support for leveling, seeding, and, at higher-visibility sites, installing wooden fencing and ornamental grasses. Those beautification steps are set to begin in late 2020.
Renewing Communities and Revitalizing Neighborhoods

Johnstown Youth Corps members spent the summer making improvements around the city and constructing beds for kids who need them.

Changing Lives

CFA launched the Early Childhood Education (ECE) Fund as a special initiative in 2019, with the aim of increasing access to quality early childhood education across the region. Research shows that quality early learning can provide multi-generational impact, which aligns perfectly with CFA’s goal of helping donors create lasting change.

In late 2019, the Foundation awarded the first round of grants from the ECE Fund: $235,000 to support teachers and providers at 50 local facilities for early learning and positively affect hundreds of children in the region. The grants were distributed to programs that demonstrated the ability to help more kids be ready for kindergarten and become proficient readers by the end of 3rd grade.

While ECE is a new initiative and special focus for CFA, the fund is meant to become a permanent resource—endowed for future grantmaking, forever—for supporting our community’s kids.

In a similar vein, the Community Initiatives (CI) Fund, established in 2010, continues to provide resources for projects that will create and sustain lasting positive change for our region. In February, CFA awarded $642,000 in CI funding to support 16 projects to strengthen Cambria and Somerset counties. Those grants included projects to improve facades and greenspaces to attract private development, plus major grants to critical improvements at Johnstown’s Inclined Plane and to implement trail lighting for the Iron to Arts Corridor, which will also serve as a section of the September 11th National Memorial Trail.

Vision Together 2025, an ongoing grassroots effort to engage volunteers and revitalize the region, also received funding, as well as a project to develop trails around Lake Somerset in Somerset County.

The Johnstown Youth Corps, a well-regarded program that provides local teens with job experience and skills for success, also received a grant. This summer, one of their projects was to team up with the Alternative Community Resource Program’s Youth Employment Services to make 80 beds for local kids who need them—a collaborative approach that responded to local needs on several levels.

To find more information on the ECE Fund, visit cfalleghenies.org/ECE, or browse information on Community Initiatives at cfalleghenies.org/community. Both funds provide opportunities for creating individual legacies. Discover how CFA can help you create a legacy that lasts forever by reaching out to CFA Donor and Development Services Officer Katrina Perkosky at kperkosky@cfalleghenies.org or (814) 208-8411.

In January, the Bedford County Endowment Advisory Committee announced that the Bedford County Community Fund reached the $100,000 milestone. Pictured left to right are: advisory board member Leah Pepple; Bedford County commissioners Barry Dallara and Deb Baughman; CFA board member John Blackburn III; CFA Bedford County Director Dina McGee; and Bedford County Commissioner Josh Lang.

Community funds managed under CFA’s umbrella create a special opportunity: They allow for localized, collective philanthropy so individuals can make a difference in their communities forever.

Both the Bedford County Community Fund and the Somerset County Community Fund are endowed, meaning the principal will never be spent and the funds will be able to make grants to causes in those counties in perpetuity.

In Bedford County this year, the Bedford County Community Fund reached the $100,000 milestone—allowing for the first grants to be distributed from that fund, which will happen in fall 2020.

The Somerset County Community Fund continues to grow and, through the #SomersetCountyGives campaign, it is moving closer to a $1 million goal.

By June 30, 2020, the balance had reached more than $714,000, and over the past year the fund distributed $26,400 in grants to Somerset County organizations, including funding to address needs that arose due to the coronavirus pandemic.

Donors who contributed to the Somerset County Community Fund—past, present, and future—helped feed families, care for children, support arts, sustain emergency services, and house the homeless this year.

CFA also brought on new directors for the Bedford County Endowments and Somerset County Endowments this year: Dina McGee and Lladel Lichty. They now serve as the primary point of contact for anyone interested in opening a fund in one of those counties, contributing to the counties’ community funds, or creating a legacy to benefit a cause in Bedford or Somerset counties.

This year, the family of former Tribune-Democrat reporter Ronald Fisher, The Tribune-Democrat, and CFA established a fund to honor Ron’s memory and passion for his hometown by providing local students with educational opportunities related to African American history. Ron was recognized across the community for his skill and creativity with the pen as well as his important role in highlighting the contributions of the African American community in the region. From a business, religious, and cultural standpoint, he gave a voice to many. When he passed away in December 2019, the loss cut deeply.

With guidance and direction from Ron’s family, the vision for the Ron Fisher African American History Educational Fund continues to evolve to include not only providing local students with the opportunity to visit the National Museum of African American History and Culture, but also building on his legacy of storytelling and advocacy.

Plans are underway to engage the community in a project that will tell the history of Black people in our region, through their own words. The hope is to be able to provide this resource as a teaching tool so that learners in our community—both young and old—can understand the past in order to move forward into the future together more boldly and compassionately.

It also will respond to a gap in educational opportunities for young people in our area. Through the fund and resulting projects, Ron will be able to continue telling stories, connecting people, and making a difference.

Ron’s sister Alexis, who is representing the Fisher family in the project, said she is excited about the fund’s potential. “My brother was committed to the community, and this is an opportunity to carry out his hopes for the future.”

The Philanthropic Leaders Advisory Network allows CFA to engage in meaningful partnerships with wealth advisors in our community. Many of our donors have long-term relationships with financial planners and attorneys, and we welcome the chance to work with both client and advisor to create impactful philanthropy to serve our region’s charitable needs. To become a PLAN member, advisors meet with the Foundation’s development staff to learn more about the work we do and agree to to attend at least one of the continuing education seminars we provide throughout the year. To learn more about PLAN or to connect directly with our members, visit cfalleghenies.org/wealth-advisors.
